Like Beating China.
Migrating Industry.
Railroads Buy Bus Lines.
Hanging a Woman.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

THE French have a saying "Comme en bateau" in China, "Like beating China," to describe anything easy.

Perhaps Russia had heard that and about Japan's easy victory over China not long ago, when Russian guns, "reds" and flying machines were sent to China's border.

A Japanese news agency, Ren-go, reports from Tokio that a force of 40,000 Russian Soviet troops are easily driving the Chinese before them.

WHEN Charles E. Mitchell, head of the National City Bank, and his organization financed the bringing of Germany's great dye industry to the United States, they did a good thing for this country and for German stockholders.

AN AMERICAN traveler, just returned, who understands business and has some millions of his own to prove it, attaches great importance to the establishment of the German dye industry here.

In addition to giving work to many Americans, including highly educated chemists, it will be recognized as a first step in Germany's exportation of money making enterprises.

"THE idea," says the traveling observer, "is to transplant German profits beyond the reach of the war debt taxes that marks, earned at home, may not be changed into francs and paid to the Allies."

GERMANY'S dye industry in the United States will supply North and South America, Japan, and probably Great Britain.

Other German industries will emigrate to this country, where capital is abundant, and profits are not attached by the Allies. Here they will develop and employ American labor inside American tariff walls.

A GREAT chain of factories, more than 40, are included in the German Farben Gesellschaft, an industry on a really gigantic scale.

The company employs 1,900 chemists of high ability. Its factory for the production of nitrogen is more than three miles long. That is a business with importance.

BRITISH railroads are buying motor bus lines, to repair diminishing profits.

Some American railroads also are doing that, not so much to make profits from buses as to check their competing activities.

A WISE step would be to build the right kind of "buses," small separate units, run them on steel rails at high speed, no stops, each an express, little wear and tear, economical Diesel engines supplying power.

That would take some thought and planning—not very much.

MRS. MARY VIAU, 43 years old, mother of eight children, was hanged in Canada yesterday for murdering her husband.

The "super-sensitive" will suggest that civilization might have found some way of punishing Mrs. Viau without sentencing eight innocent children to life-long shame.

HOWEVER, you always find improvement if you look for it.

We haven't, at present, any Puritan preachers telling us that the eight little children will sit up in Heaven, later, their bliss greatly augmented by looking down upon those burning in Hell, including their mother, and we no longer burn criminals alive legally, as was once done in New York and New Jersey.

THE International Physiological Congress at Harvard learns that a man running at top speed uses, in chemical energy, 13-horse power.

Overcoming gravitation uses only one-tenth of a horse power. Swinging the arms as you run wastes about half a horse power. Chances there to lower the 100-yard dash record.

ANOTHER learned gentleman discovers that one hour of physical exercise every day for five or six weeks increases enormously the capacity of the lungs, and their ability to transfer oxygen to the blood. If you stop at exercising after six weeks, the body retains part of the benefit for several months.

BIG business grows bigger and bigger.

Minneapolis reports that 24 savings banks have been gathered into one merger to be known as the First Bank Stock Corporation. Seattle has recently announced another very important bank consolidation.

The bigger the better, if the people have any intelligence. It is

PLANES REACH FOREST CITY FOR AIR SHOW

Good Will Tour of State Ends When Crafts Land.

FLIERS FETTERED

Competitive Events in Classic Start Sunday.

By BURL A. ELY.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24.—(INS)—The completion of the all Ohio good will tour at the airport here today proved to be an impressive and striking commentary on the strength and ability of the aviation industry in this state.

The tour, sponsored by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, successfully accomplished the purpose for which it was designed. In visiting the leading cities throughout the state the twenty pilots who took part in the tour, not only increased the air-mindedness of Ohioans, but also showed the world in general and the aviation lights who are assembled here for the air races and the big exposition, in particular, that Ohio must be reckoned with in all future activities of America's most rapidly developing industry.

City Manager William R. Hopkins, Mayor John D. Marshall and Clifford Henderson, who is directing the races and exposition, greeted the good will flyers with unrestrained enthusiasm. It was fitting, they declared, that the greatest air classic of all time, which is being held in an Ohio city, should be officially opened with an all-Ohio feature.

Shortly after their arrival at the airport, the good-will flyers were the honor guests at a luncheon of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce. The meal was attended by 150 persons. R. B. Robinson, first vice president of the chamber, acted as toastmaster.

At the close of the luncheon, the flyers participated in the official opening of the exposition at the public auditorium.

The planes flew here this morning from Lorain, Pa., slightly less than three hours. They arrived in Lorain early yesterday after leaving Marion at 11 a. m.

Ohioans likewise will occupy the center of the air classic stage tomorrow when the competitive events get under way. The first race on the program, which is scheduled to start promptly at 1:30 p. m., is the all-Ohio derby. The pilots entered in this event will strike a zig-zag course around the state, returning to the local airport for the finish of the race on Monday.

Tomorrow, incidentally, has been designated "all-Ohio day."

SENATE TURNS DEAF EAR ON POTTERS PLEA

Allows Tariff Increase On Cups, Saucers And Plates.

HOPE EXPRESSED

Measue Must be Enacted Before New Years or Aban

Senate finance committee members at Washington have turned a deaf ear upon the plea of American dinnerware manufacturers and operators for an increase in tariff which will protect the home industry from the "sinuous" competition of foreign producers.

Amend Hawley-Smoot Bill

An amendment to the proposed Hawley-Smoot bill, which has already passed the house and which will come up for debate in the senate within the next couple of weeks plugs up a loop hole through which it is claimed European manufacturers have been shipping cups, saucers and plates into the United States, duty free.

The proposed amendment to Paragraphs 211 and 212 which deals with the ceramic products stipulates that a tariff charge of 10 cents per dozen pieces shall be charged for cups, saucers and plates, valued at not more than 50 cents a dozen, when shipped to this country separately or in sets. The old ad valorem duty of 45 per cent on plain earthenware, is unchanged while an increase in the ad valorem rates for decorated earthenware is advanced from 50 to 55 per cent. The ad valorem rates on china ware of 60 and 70 per cent also remains unchanged.

Operatives Interested.

The measure, as it passed the house several weeks ago, provided for a 10 cents per dozen pieces change in tariff on all ware imported into the United States in addition to the retention of the ad valorem rates.

Representatives of the United States Potters association and the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters have made several trips to Washington where they attended committee hearings and conferred with Republican leaders in an effort to bring about tariff reforms.

GETS LETTER ON 12TH BIRTHDAY

Jane Gray Hears From Father Executed 19 Months Ago.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(INS)—A voice from the unknown spoke today to the one that its mortal master loved most.

Judd Gray, dead these 19 months since he and Ruth Snyder died in Sing Sing's electric chair for their murder of Albert Snyder, was speaking to the daughter he cherished above all—his little Jane, 12 years old today.

He was speaking not as a man who had loved unwisely and who had slain. "He was speaking just as 'Daddy'."

The letter that Jane will receive today, although from a father long dead, is written in the tenor of a living parent advising a beloved child. There will be ten more of them, one each birthday anniversary until Jane is 22. Jane Gray is living with relatives at Norwalk, Conn.

ON BOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, (Via Radio to I. N. S.)—August 24.—Favored by a following wind of 20 miles per hour velocity, the Graf Zeppelin at 11:50 o'clock tonight, Saturday, 6:45 a. m., East Liverpool time, was bowling along over the mid-Pacific ocean at a speed of 70 miles per hour.

Day Turns Back.

The Zeppelin's position at that time was 44.10 degrees north latitude, 175.30 degrees east longitude, which is approximately 2,600 miles east by northwest of Tokyo.

All on board were well and happy. At the time of filing this dispatch the airship was only about 800 miles from the 180th Meridian, at which point the Graf will sail from tomorrow into today. On passing the 189th Meridian the Graf loses 10 hours in clock time. Her position changing from 17 hours ahead of Eastern daylight time to 7 hours behind that time.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—The Graf Zeppelin's position as radioed from the dirigible and picked up by the Los Angeles Herald short-wave receiver today gave latitude 43.50 north; longitude 174.10 east at 1 noon (Greenwich mean time) which is 4 a. m. Pacific coast standard time.

"All well," said the message. The position given was estimated at approximately 2,000 land miles northeast of Tokyo.

ANGRY BEAR ROUTS FOUR

Painesville Party Escape by Jumping Into Water.

PAINESVILLE, Aug. 24.—Four bold Painesville, Ohio, tourists who attempted to take undue liberties with a large black bear while on a fishing trip near De Joachims, were forced to beat an undignified retreat when the bear turned on them and gave them a fight they will long remember.

The men, Dr. Seymour, Ralph Wilkins, Paul Cook and E. Hach, had just cast anchor on an early morning fishing trip, when Dr. Seymour noticed the bear on the river bank. The doctor cast his bait pole at the bear, and the bear lodged firmly in the animal's neck. The bear dashed along the bank with the boat in tow, his passengers whooping gleefully.

The party decided that this sport was too tame, however, and endeavored to take the animal a prisoner. After they had struck him with their oars, the bear turned on them, knocked one of the oars out of the hands of one of his tormentors by way of retaliation, and endeavored to climb into the boat. This was too much for the bear fishermen and they jumped into the water and dashed ashore with the bear in pursuit.

After chasing them for a hundred yards or more the bear changed his mind and dashed off into the bush.

Light it in September . . .

Forget it Until May

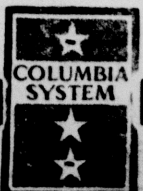

That's the way I fire my gas furnace! Why, man, I can't tell you what a burden this new gas-fired heating plant has taken from my mind. No more heating worries such as uneven temperatures, drafts, sickness, ashes, dirt, dust and grime of the old methods.

I had it installed last fall and, truthfully I wouldn't revert back to the old methods for the world. My gas-heating plant needs no attention whatever—I just light it when cool weather comes and forget it until April or May.

I never worry about fluctuating temperatures, either, for the wall indicator, placed conveniently upstairs, takes care of that. I simply set it for any desired temperature, say 70 degrees, for instance, and my home is heated consistently at that temperature until the indicator is changed.

Experienced heating engineers from the Gas Company surveyed my heating needs and they will do the same for you. Let them give you a survey and estimate—then, if you want, you may have the plant installed by making only a small down payment. The balance you can pay in monthly installments with the gas bill.

What Chance for Peace?

From The Hague comes announcement of the possibility, if not the probability, that the Rhineland will be freed of troops alien to that soil by Christmas day.

There has been a veritable flood of utterances about the desirability of a world consecration to peace, and all the enjoyments it offers, yet the Allies and we who were associated with them in the great world struggle of ten years ago well know that the war can not be forgotten and there can be no world consecration to peace so long as German soil is occupied by foreign troops.

Unfortunately, the withdrawal of the army of occupation from the Rhineland is predicted on the approval of the pact. No matter what the willingness of Premier Briand of France may be in regard to heeding the German request for the evacuation of the Rhine valley, he is handicapped by the position of the French press, which cries out against any further troop withdrawals until the Young plan has been approved and put into operation.

A still more formidable obstacle is the attitude of Great Britain, as set out by Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden. One can not but admire the business with which he states the British position, despite an offer to compromise by the other allies which carried considerable concessions. But while admiring the chancellor for coming out into the open and talking plainly, there is one matter which has from the first been studiously avoided by the governments allied in the World war—and that is consideration of the colonies wrested from Germany during and following the conflict. Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Japan figured in the spoils, and Great Britain most of all. Of all the great powers engaged in the war, the United States alone took no part in division of the colonial spoils. Great Britain, no more than France, Italy or Belgium, can ever be compensated for her dead and wounded, but in the colonies she took from Germany she is more than dollar for dollar recompensed for her financial expenditures during the conflict, a matter which in justice she should consider in her exactions from Germany.

It may be that the French agreement to evacuate the Rhine will not be carried into execution by Christmas. Should a settlement be reached by which the proposal might become an actuality, what finer Christmas present could be given the world, which, ten years after the conflict is ended, is still groaning under the burden of the war and yet augmenting its armaments while crying: "Peace. Let us have peace?"

First Aid For The Primary

A "no vote, no job" edict has gone out from the county board of elections to every judge, registrar and clerk in precinct polling places throughout the county. When the recent discovery was made that in one city alone more than a score of workers failed to cast their ballots at the August primary, the board decided to take drastic action with the result that a number of workers face possible ouster when new appointments are made next month.

Much has been said and written regarding the importance of every qualified voter participating in all elections, especially primary contests. It is true that too often party candidates for municipal and county office are selected by active minorities who avail themselves of the privilege of voting while a larger percentage of electors remain away from the polls and then find fault with the quality of the nominees.

There is considerable competition for "jobs at the polls," and precinct workers are well compensated for their services. Is it unreasonable to insist that they be interested enough to set an example for the rank and file of the voting or non-voting public? Is it presuming too much to point out to them the fact, well known to most of us, that voting is one of the first obligations of citizenship to be exercised wholly and intelligently to the end that our republican form of government shall prevail?

Carefully-preserved statistics prove conclusively that the average voter is indifferent to the ordinary primary and that his interests are aroused only when there are unusual features aside from the more or less routine nomination of candidates. Those who framed the law inaugurating the primary system, of course, had no means of knowing that a side show would be required to drum up votes at every preliminary runoff. Such an attitude on the part of the voters is dangerous in that it defeats the purpose for which the law was enacted. Precinct judges, clerks and registrars should be the first rather than the last to recognize that danger.

The White Star line has ordered such construction as has been done on its 1,000-foot liner, Oceanic, scrapped, planning to build a vessel still larger and faster than it was designed to be. One of the next big problems of the ship builders will be to keep up on the new models of their rivals.

Gene Tunney is learning. Gene really thought he was something of an athlete till he tried to keep up with Polly over in Paris on a shopping tour. Gene will probably find, as all married men have found, that the old-time references to frail womanhood were founded on one of the eleven original jokes.

Judging by the utterances of Winston Churchill, former British chancellor of the exchequer, at that Toronto luncheon, there isn't going to be much naval reduction despite all the talk to that effect, and in the light of past talk and subsequent performance a lot of people in this country will be inclined to go along with him in this view.

HASKIN LETTER DAILY

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 24.—The main issue of the problem of reducing the postal deficit, to which President Hoover is giving special attention is determination of just and proper rates as between the first class mail which, in 1928, gave the government a profit of $37,178,286, and second class mail which, in the same year, was carried at a loss of $85,281,085.

Aside from the business aspect of the situation there is one of fundamental policy which the president and others contending with the situation must face. The larger newspapers and magazines are claimed by the post office department to be carried at a heavy loss. It is true it is merely a loss to the government agency, not a loss to the American people. Because, it is contended, the advertising matter which these publications contain, stimulates commerce and facilitates the transaction of business which adds billions to the national income. What matter, it is asked, if the government cost is $100,000 or so above what it takes in its operation of the postal system adds so much to the wealth of the nation? Moreover, a vast volume of actual goods moves by parcel post. While some of this would move anyway, still the parcel post service stimulates business, especially in rural communities not served by express companies. The universality of the postal service adds greatly to the market which it is feasible to reach.

In any event, it is claimed, the post office department was not designed as a money-making venture for the government but as a facility to serve the people. John Quincy Adams, as president of the United States, announced the first national postal policy on record when he declared in a message to congress in 1827: "While the correct principle seems to be that the income levied by the department should defray all its expenses, it has never been the policy of this government to raise from this establishment any revenue to be applied to any other purpose."

But the following year Postmaster General McLean went further, pointing out at length that while certain economies could be effected, he did not advise it, in spite of the deficit which even then existed because "public convenience would be greatly lessened and the means of information withheld from districts of the country but sparsely inhabited." Further on he emphasizes the usefulness of the postal service in forwarding "the various transactions of business, the pleasures of correspondence and the general diffusion of information."

This has been the fundamental policy of the government throughout its existence and accounts for the fact that only in 14 years has the post office department shown a surplus. Wholly aside from a question of public policy the publishers of newspapers and magazines go so far as to contend that the post office department is calculating wrongly, to some extent at least, in throwing such a burden of loss on second class mail matter. In recent discussions before committees of congress it has been argued by publishers that the second class mail adds very little to the overhead cost of the postal services. The same post office premises, the same mail carriers, and other employees would have to be maintained if only first class mail were handled. The post office has taken the position that the weight of the second class mail matter is out of all proportion to the low rate charged. To this the publishers have answered that, when the rates were raised by congress, many publishers turned to express, baggage and freight facilities and saved money, indicating that if these private companies, operated for profit, could carry newspapers and magazines at less than postal rates, then the argument of increased cost of transportation on account of weight must fall to the ground.

The act was passed in 1912 but Postmaster General Durbin, taking office in 1913 was the first to administer its operation. He claimed that the service should return a profit of $10,000,000 annually but careful figures for recent years show that actually the post office department performs this service at a yearly loss of about $7,000,000.

The latest development has been similar treatment of air mail lines. While the post office department inaugurated its own air mail lines, it now does all its business through private air mail contractors and generous rates are paid them on the subsidy theory.

Walter F. Brown, postmaster general, is the man who, at the request of President Harding, drew up an elaborate plan for the reorganization of the entire government establishment in the interests of economy and efficiency. As he, under President Hoover, will have general charge of the task of reducing or eliminating the postal deficit, it is obvious that the job is in expert hands.

Since Rosalie happens to be at one of the beaches where sunbaked bathing suits are banned, she has a suit which laces up the back and which she can very easily unlace when it is desired to have a sunbaked suit. Sometimes it is really easier to swim in a full suit anyway, and then let it down for the sun bath on the sand after ward or before. The trunks are full and are also laced on the sides to add symmetry to the suit. These days when every one wants to spend as much time on the beach as possible there really should be something to do besides just lolling on the sand, and for the use of those who wish to play cards or sew to pass away the time there is a clever little beach table made of bamboo and oiled-cloth-bound canvas which can be folded up and carried as easily as a light basket. It is very low and has four side pockets with slide fastenings. Copyright, 1929, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. — Otto Kahn is the amusement world's most celebrated Butler and Egg Man—the "angel" par excellence. His generosity toward the opera as well as the struggling little actors and actresses, has cost him more thousands than even his heavy publicity records.

Mr. Kahn's bulging purses seem never tightened for any new experimentation in art, literature and drama. He is the chronic good fellow so far as they are concerned but those who know say he is extremely penny wise in expenditures of a personal sort.

He backed his talented son, Roger Wolfe, in several night clubs, theatrical and jazz band endeavors, and for these looting up the red on the ledger he holds a slight note which must be paid just the same as any other loans to individuals.

About the only recent so-called artistic movement around New York in which he did not play a part was the Hoboken renaissance. This was due to the fact that the Grouping for Better Things across the river checked from the start, before the recent debacle left it high and dry—mostly dry.

It is said the financier was generally sorry. He would have liked to have been identified with the Sea-coast of Bohemia because of a sentimentality. It was at Meyer's Hotel—infused with new life before its recent padlocks—that Mr. Kahn ate his first meal upon arriving in America, years ago.

Mr. Kahn is the cosmopolite and wealthy man about town of the enormous metropolis. He generally arrives at the theater in the middle of the first act, where his silver hair and expansive white shirt front add lustre to first nights. He often attends three openings in an evening.

There are a half dozen secretaries whose jobs are to sort out worthy request mail, have it investigated and after much microscopic scrutiny, if any, prove to be real assistance filters on to Mr. Kahn. Of yes, as a democratic gesture now and then he rides in the subway.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Water is your friend. It should be your baby's friend and will be, if you will help a little.

Cleanliness is essential to health. The cleaner your baby is, the better tempered it will be; the less it will cry; the better it will look; the better it will be in every respect!

In hot weather the mother of an infant has no easy task. She has a fatigued job. Fortunately, it is a satisfactory job in the long run, worth all the trouble and anxiety.

The baby must be changed often. Every time this is done, there must be local bathing, thorough drying and the application of powder. Without perfect cleansing, the skin becomes irritated, chafed or chapped. This causes pain—real discomfort. In consequence, the poor little youngster cries and moans every day and night. The experienced mother will understand. The new mother may not know. That is why I speak about it.

The skin of an infant is extremely thin and sensitive. It must be treated more considerably than the venerable of a three-thousand dollar piano.

It is surprising what a difference there is in soaps. A variety that agrees with one adult may produce uncomfortable skin symptoms to another. A variety that agrees with all adults may be extremely irritating to a baby. You must select the soap with care. When you find a kind that agrees, stick to it. To avoid irritation of the infant's skin is a thing vital to its welfare.

It is a lot of trouble to prepare for that thorough bath every day. On a particularly hot day, there is a temptation to omit it. This must not be done. The cleansing of the whole body is necessary in order that the skin may be in prime condition to do its work. The more work the skin does, the less burden there will be to be carried by the kidneys. Good health is promoted by activity of the skin. Health is impaired unless the skin is kept clean. Plenty of water for bathing and plenty of water to drink. These are well worth while hints for baby's care in hot weather.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy. Visiting on Motor Tours. In planning your automobile trips do you lay out a course which will enable you to spend considerable time at the homes of friends?

You don't do this as a matter of saving money, but you really wish to see and visit with old friends when you can. You write them that you may be in the vicinity about a certain time and that if they wish to see you, you will call upon them. This may be your way of procuring an invitation.

You put them in position to feel that they should invite you to be a guest at their homes.

In the majority of cases the response is not because they are so anxious to see you, but it becomes a duty to them.

Only very near and very dear friends are happy to entertain you. Guests usually disrupt the daily family program. Especially in Summer most families divide their time systematically so that they can work and play with the least effort, physical or mental.

Don't impose on your friends when you go on trips. If you cannot pay your way stay at home. Visit only those who invite you of their own volition. Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

Crossing the Border.

Americans motoring across the border from Canada have complained of late that without warning they have been asked to produce birth certificates as proof of citizenship. On other occasions they point out, United States immigration inspectors have accepted their word or have passed them on such evidence as cards of membership in organizations on this side of the border. At other points on the border, they add, such legal proof of citizenship is not required.

Answering these complaints, W. W. Husband, assistant secretary of labor, admits there are no written regulations covering the admission of such returning American citizens. Immigration inspectors, he adds, are merely instructed to demand reasonable proof of citizenship. Greater watchfulness at the border is necessary, he points out, because of the passage of new laws by congress making it a misdemeanor for an alien to enter by false and misleading statements, and a felony for an alien who tries to gain entry by unlawful methods.

Department records show that some 23,000,000 persons from this side cross the border annually, besides some 7,000,000 Canadians, in the relatively small area between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic. It is a surprising thing how few Americans possess certificates in proof of the date and place of their birth. Such a document is valuable on other occasions besides crossing the border. It is something that every one should keep with his other valuable papers. Motorists who plan trips outside of their immediate communities, would save themselves much trouble and annoyance by taking along their automobile registration papers as a matter of course, and if they venture outside of the United States, the birth certificate might not come amiss. It would seem, however, that written as well as uniform regulations would be put into effect along the border.—Ohio State Journal.

When the British steamer, Vestris, sunk last November with the loss of 111 lives, most of them women and children, the ship owners blamed the weather, the crew, and about everything and everybody except themselves.

It was clear, however, that the ship was overloaded. The ship was unseaworthy. The captain had company orders encouraging him to delay sending an SOS—which would mean salvage expense. These facts, first established by the press, were later substantiated by the two official American inquiries.

They are now finally confirmed by the longer and fuller investigation and report of the British board of trade.

The only way to protect the public and crews from the unnecessary dangers resulting from ship owners' greed for big profits is by stricter laws and actual enforcement of those laws.

Among the most tragic might have been in this case is the fact that the Vestris in her condition would not have been permitted to sail from a British port. But American regulations were complied with. That shows how much American ship safety regulations are worth.—Columbus Citizen.

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am fifteen years of age and have known a boy for a year. Last June he went traveling and he is still away. He writes to me all the time. He tells me he loves me and wants me to marry him when we grow older. He thinks I am a changeable girl because I tell him I like him and don't love him. How could I answer such letters. BLONDIE.

BLONDIE: Certainly you are changeable as your age and should continue to be so for some years. As for love and marriage you are far too young to even think of them. Girls and boys of your age should be merely good pals and enjoy a carefree companionship.

If you wish to write to this boy occasionally, merely write friendly, chatty letters—the kind you might write to a girl. He will respect your sensible, dignified attitude and if he still cares for you when you are both older, there will be time enough to talk of marriage.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

1.—Should a girl dance with men she doesn't know when she only knows one man (the man she went with) in the whole crowd? 2.—If some man that knows you but you do not know, dances with you and during the dance asks if your name is Miss So-and-So (your right name), should you say "yes" and let it go at that or should you say something more, and if so what should you say? 3.—Is there any harm in spooning?

4.—After the man says thank you for the dance is "all right" enough for the girl to say or what should she say? 5.—If you like a young man but no one else seems to care much for him should you give him up? He is as good as any young fellow and there are no serious thoughts. DUMB DORA.

DUMB DORA: The young lady's escort should be that she is introduced to her dancing partners.

2.—Answering the question is sufficient. 3.—A great deal of harm, my dear. Unless you are engaged to a young man, promiscuous love-making simply cheapens you. The act itself may be perfectly innocent, but the danger lies in what may happen later.

4.—A smile and a pleasant "I enjoyed it also," is sufficient. 5.—Love is one of the finest traits of our human nature. If you like him and he is gentlemanly and respected toward you, there is no reason under the sun why you should give up his friendship.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a young girl in my teens. I have been going with a young man for over a year and I love him very much. We are engaged to be married soon. He has been going with another girl. Until lately I went out with other boys. Do you think it right? We have now made our promises. But yet I am not completely happy. I like dancing very much. He never dances. When I go to one with a party of friends we fight. Should I go or stay home, as he does? He takes me to shows and gives me a good time, but every so often I want a dance. When at dances I dance with other boys, as I am a good dancer. I enjoy their attention. There is one young man especially that I am interested in and he seems to be with me. Is it dangerous or wrong to go tooning with him and a party of young folks on Sunday evening? I let my "steady" go if he wants to. He says he doesn't want me to go and don't want to go himself. I think there is time enough to settle down after we are married, but I don't want him to cease loving me. So what shall I do? Am I selfish? BROWN EYES.

BROWN EYES: If you are seriously intending to marry this young man it does seem that you and your fiancé should begin now to develop the same interests and find amusements that are congenial to you both. Incompatibility of this kind is likely to lead to unhappiness after marriage. As he does not dance and you like to, it seems only fair that occasionally he should take you to dance and permit you to dance with other young men.

However, if you still feel that you cannot be happy without the attentions of other young men, I don't believe you are ready to think of marriage.

Amusements

MANY 'EXTRAS' IN "ON WITH SHOW"

The reputed boredom of extra players, while waiting around between scenes in the movies, was non-existent on the immense theater set where Warner Brothers' "On With the Show," first 100 percent natural color, talking, singing, dancing picture, now at the State theater, was being filmed.

Instead, the extras were entertained by an array of talent that would make a New York ticket-speculator green with envy.

Joe E. Browne, famous for years in vaudeville, was generally clowning around. Arthur Lake amused himself thinking up new eccentric dances. Sam Hardy gave the impersonations that made him famous on the stage, and Lee Moran put on one of the roughhouse acts that made him famous in variety. At other times members of the Harmon Quartet of comed singers, who are nationally famous for their melodies, tuned up, or the Fairbanks Twins tripped the light fantastic. And if that wasn't enough Louise Fazenda did her stuff! Alan Crosland, the director, expressed his delight that the extra talent on his set were in a mental condition so like that of the cows in the famous ad.

PLENTY THRILLS IN 'FLYING FOOL'

God's gift to the ladies and the devil's present to his enemies! That's "The Flying Fool," who, in the person of William Boyd, is now being shown at the American theater.

This all-talking air drama is a brilliant dramatic and humorous entertainment that is just about the best thing in which the Pathe par has appeared this season. The film fits Boyd perfectly and, with excellent supporting cast including Marie Prevost, Tom 'Brien and Russell Gleason, he gives a performance that is full of dramatic highlights as well as hearty laughs.

The story of the "Flying Fool" is that of a stunt flyer who lives just for the thrill of life. He takes his fun where he finds it and women, to him, were created purely for entertainment purposes. The one love of his life is his kid brother and Boyd's devil-may-care existence is interrupted only when he decides to save this brother from what he believes to be a designing cabaret dancer and singer. Instead of saving his brother Bill falls in love himself and then things begin to happen. They happen fast and furious and the story reaches a tremendous climax in the air which, it is said, will thrill the most blasé of fans.

"MAKING GRADE" ADE COMEDY

Another George Ade story on the screen—said to be the best he ever has done—is "Making the Grade," now showing at the Ceramic theater.

Lois Moran and Edmund Lowe are featured in the leading roles of "Making the Grade," a comedy romance produced for Fox by Alfred E. Green.

The theme reminds one of "The Taming of the Shrew" except that in this case it is a fast and furious romance packed with laugh-provoking situations in which the girl assumes the role of the tamer.

Edmund Lowe, as a young millionaire dilettante, returns to his old home town from Europe. Considering his former townspeople beneath his station, he walks about in the clouds of a superior world of his own—until he chances to meet the girl (Lois Moran), who sets at the price of her heart, his complete reform.

The ensuing situations of the young millionaire trying to overcome his snobbish proclivities brings on a cyclone of laughs.

The screen adaptation was done by Harry Brand. The well balanced cast includes, besides the principals, Lucien Littlefield, Albert Hart, Rolfe Sedan, Guino Conti and Lia Hara.

Robinson and Mrs. John B. McDonald.

Twenty guests from this city took part in the tournament, after which a one o'clock luncheon was served in the club.

An Old-Pal foursome was held by the local women on the East Liverpool course Wednesday, with Mrs. Robert T. Hall and Mrs. C. H. Bailey receiving the trophies presented by Mrs. Herbert A. Smith and Mrs. Samuel S. Grogdole.

On Wednesday, August 28, an 18-hole medal play with full handicap will feature ladies day. The trophy will be presented by Mrs. C. A. Smith. The championship tournament for the Mrs. Edwin M. and Mary Cline.

Knowles cup, will be played in two divisions of 16 each without handicap. Qualifying week will be from September 4 to 11 inclusive.

G. T. Club Entertained.

G. T. club members were entertained in the home of Mrs. Sidney Brown in Maplewood, Thursday night. Rook and music formed the entertainment, trophies being awarded Mesdames W. W. York and Joseph Davies.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Maxine Brown, covers being arranged for 12 guests.

In two weeks the club will be entertained by Mrs. Ira Burbick on Ray street.

Classes Hold Wiener Roast.

CITY LAUNCHES SAFETY DRIVE

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24. — (INS.) — Alarmed over the rapidly increasing total of traffic fatalities among children, city authorities today prepared to launch an intensive safety crusade to curb the automobile hazard.

Already the 1929 automobile traffic fatalities among children nearly equals the total of 1928, records of the police manslaughter squad showed today. Fifty boys and girls have been killed this year, a majority of them since the speed law, permitting a maximum rate of 35 miles an hour, went into effect.

The safety crusade will be thrown into full force with the beginning of school next month, officials stated today.

BIBLE STUDENT

Discusses "John The Baptist" in Last Night's Discourse.

John the Baptist was the last and the greatest of all the Old Testament prophets and he introduced his hearers to the greatest person who has ever lived who would baptize them not with water, but the Holy Ghost.

He spoke last evening on "The Baptism with the Holy Spirit," basing his viewpoint upon scriptural passages from all of the four gospels, but more particularly that from John.

That John the Baptist had been preaching for six months and during this interim calling upon his hearers to quit sin, confess their past irregularities and prove their conversion by an outward amendment of life was pointed out by the Rev. Dr. Heslop.

John then introduces his followers and converts to the Lamb of God and informs them that Christ shall baptize them with the Holy Ghost and with fire.

He then noted that John Wesley ever referred to the baptism with the Holy Ghost as "the second blessing." He further declared that in the Bible it is referred to MAYORS, police commissioners and plain citizens will be interested in the plan of Commissioner Whalen, New York City. He will equip police cars with radio receiving machines, not for the amusement of drivers, but for receiving police news.

THERE will probably also be broadcasting in plain English when it is desired to concentrate all police guards within reach on some particular man hunt, quickly.

A preliminary code signal or "radio password" would guarantee the genuineness of the message from headquarters.

as "the second grace" or "the second benefit" and "entire sanctification," "holiness," "purity of heart," or "being filled with the Spirit." This experience and life, he said, is the privilege of every child of God of every denomination.

To bulwark his affirmations he gave his own personal experience in which he noted that he had been converted to God in a Methodist church in Newcastle-upon-Tyne, England twenty-two years ago.

And two years later as a Methodist preacher after seeking earnestly for six months God sanctified him wholly. Fire from heaven purged his soul from all sin and he knew experimentally what it meant to be baptized with the Holy Ghost and with fire," he observed.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(INS)—Eighteen grim-faced record-seekers were swinging along today in Chicago's first rocking chair marathon.

Senate Turns

Watson Issues Ultimatum. By William K. Hutchinson, I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The new tariff bill now being enacted into law by next New Year's day at the latest or the Republican leadership in congress will seriously consider its abandonment.

This was the virtual ultimatum served on the senate today by Senator James E. Watson (R.) of Indiana, the majority floor leader. He indicated the bill would be abandoned and all tariff revision postponed indefinitely if the pending tariff battle in the senate is dragged out into the new year.

"If this bill is not a law and signed by the president on Jan. 1 next, we will not permit the Democrats to jockey it through the next regular session," said Watson. "If it is defeated by delay, the Democrats will then be to blame."

The Republican leader indicated there would be important legislation pending in the next regular session which would be given preference over the tariff. He may have had in mind a possible naval disarmament treaty, growing out of the approaching visit of Premier Ramsey MacDonald, of Great Britain.

Other important matters, which likely will be pending in the new year will be the Vane case. A railroad consolidation bill, a measure affecting regulation of telegraph, telephone and radio companies and reforms in the Indian service.

FIVE FAIL IN ATTEMPT TO BREAK JAIL

Akron Sheriff Frustrates Escape of Five Men.

USES KEYHOLE

One of Prisoners Has Pal in Ohio Penitentiary.

AKRON, O., Aug. 24.—(INS)—A timely peep through the keyhole today had resulted in the frustration of an attempted jailbreak from the Summit county jail by five inmates.

Sheriff Jacob Bollinger did the "peeping." Through the keyhole he saw the five prisoners sawing industriously at the jail window bars. Three had already been sawed through. Within a few minutes Sheriff Bollinger had gathered a squad of picked men and raided the would-be jailbreakers. They were transferred to other cells.

William Fuller, said to have at one time been a partner of Parker "Peanuts" Maul who is now serving a term in the Ohio state penitentiary for the murder of a policeman here, was believed by jail authorities to have been the leader of the attempted break.

His co-partners, police say, were Anthony Kapelnoch, 27, of Akron, Joseph Miller of Cleveland, Clifford Bland and Lefe Cayes of Akron.

Carter and Kemp, members of the East Boston, Mass., "gas house" gang, they said, admitted holdups all the way across the country.

Barry's body was shipped to Quincy for burial. He leaves a widow of a few months there.

Average Speed 66 Miles.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Aug. 24.—(INS)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin, racing across the Pacific from Tokyo to Los Angeles, had covered 1,450 miles of her 5,000 mile journey at 4 a. m. Greenwich mean time (midnight New York daylight saving time), according to a wireless message received here from aboard the airship today.

At that hour, her position was 165 degrees east, 40.05 north. The ship was flying at an altitude of 900 meters through clouds and fog and against a slight headwind. Her average speed for the twenty-two hours since she took off from Tokyo was approximately 66 miles an hour.

Arrival to Be Broadcast.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—(INS)—One of the greatest hook-ups in the history of radio will be used in describing the arrival of the Graf Zeppelin here, it was announced today.

The National Broadcasting company is to carry a running story of the arrival of the dirigible to its chain, and affiliated short wave stations will broadcast the event to the far corners of the earth.

The English, French, German and Japanese languages are to be used in the broadcast.

The broadcast will begin when the Graf Zeppelin is sighted here, will be picked up and continued by an airplane and then transferred back again to the main controls, where Dr. Hugo Eckener, the commander, and his passengers are scheduled to give brief accounts of the trip across the Pacific ocean from Tokyo.

Wall In Dispute

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(INS)—British warships have been ordered to Palestine as a result of the violent and fatal rioting between Moslems and Jews at Jerusalem. It was earned at the admiralty this afternoon.

At least 100 are dead and more than 100 wounded as a result of fighting at the "Wailing wall" and elsewhere in Jerusalem.

At the request of the British high commissioner in Palestine the British battleship Barham and the cruiser Sussex were ordered to leave Malta during the day.

Jews and Arabs in Jerusalem have long been in dispute over the Wailing wall. The controversy arises from the fact that the wall, regarded as the "holy of holies" to Jewish people is also an integral part of the Mosque of Omar, a shrine sacred to all Moslems.

The Arabs own the land on which the wall stands and refuse to sell it at any price. They do not deny the spiritual right of Jews to worship at the wall. They charge that of late the Jews have endeavored to extend their sphere of rights in connection with the shrine.

Kothel Maaravi, as Orthodox Jews call the Wailing wall, is, according to tradition, the last remnant of the temple built by Solomon 3,000 years ago. It is the symbol of sorrow over the departure of ancient Jewish glory.

Conflicts within the shadow of the wall have been frequent and severe. The mandates commission of the League of Nations has been asked to settle the controversy, but efforts to reconcile the antagonistic views of the followers of the two different faiths thus far have been unsuccessful.

EIGHT VETERANS HOLD REUNION

CANTON, O., Aug. 24.—(INS)—Eight snow-haired veterans of the Civil war who fought with the famous 107th O. V. L., solemnly conducted an election at the annual reunion of the unit at the varre, near here, today, and re-elected Alfred Vignos of Canton, president.

Of the 1,090 young men who shouldered muskets and marched away to defend the union in 1861 with the 107th only 26 of them are still living. The eight veterans who met today, however, were all that were able to attend the reunion. Some of them lived at such a distance that they were unable to be present and others were kept away due to infirmities of age.

WELLSVILLE CUTS NEWELL LEAD IN 4-1 TILT

Bunch Swats In Fourth; Victory Is Protested

West Virginians Question Eligibility of Pitcher Malonis; Baker Invincible in All But One Frame.

Behind the effective twirling of the Malonis, making his debut for the Nicholson nine, the Wellsville Inter-City league club last night defeated the Newell team in a game that was protested by the West Virginians.

Formal protest was entered by Manager Joe Dickey of the Laughlin team who questioned the eligibility of Pitcher Malonis.

As a result of the Wellsville victory, as the ratings now stand, the Newell lead was cut to a half game over the second place Kates, and the latter are but half a game in front of the Wellsville club in third place.

The standing today is:

Wellsville	6	6	.500

Lefty Baker was on the firing line for the Newell nine and was forced to take the loser's end after limiting the home club to five hits. It was a tough one to drop in view of Baker's fine performance, during which he fanned seven.

Malonis is Steady. The winners, however, bunched four of the five bingles they got off Baker in the fourth inning and that did the damage.

Malonis, on the other hand, meted out eight but kept them pretty well scattered. He, too, had a bad inning, the second, when seven men batted, but he got out of the hole with the loss of only one run. Three Laughlin swatters were retired at the first, but the three runners being stranded in the paths, Pollock led off with a hard clout which bounced off the right field fence for a single. Davis beat out an infield hit and Bubin got one of the same variety, filling the sacks. Baker dumped a short single to left center, scoring Pollock, but Davis was held at third. The stacks were still filled and none down. It appeared a glorious scoring opportunity for the visitors but Randall struck out, Watson fouled out to Maley and Densmore lined out to Davis in left to retire the side.

Bunch Hits in Fourth. G. Wagner fanned to start the Wellsville half of the fourth, which occurred the four-run onslaught. But brother Cal drew a walk and Watson singled. Talbot singled to center, scoring Wagner, and Watson going to third. Talbot stole second. Tobin was safe on a

HELEN BEATS MOLLA

Most tennis experts expected to find Betty Nuthall, famous young British tennis star, left, in the women's national championship finals at Forest Hills, N. Y., with Helen Wills, right, but Molla Mallory upset the hope when she disposed of the 16-year-old sensation by scores of 6-3, 6-3. And then along came Helen.

Miss Wills crushed Mrs. Mallory, 6-0, 6-0, as more than 4,000 spectators at the West Side Tennis club looked on yesterday.

Dixies Defeat Chester

Rose Allows Smith Field Nine But Three Hits.

HANDING out but three safe swats, all singles, Rose pitched the Dixieville club of the Community circuit to a 4-1 victory over the Grandview A. C. of Chester at Smith field last night.

Morris and Chamberlain led the hitting attack, the former with three trips to the plate and the latter with two in two official times at bat, both finishing the day with perfect averages.

Fanning, Swift and Lyons were the only Chester hitters.

Fanning, at second, and Lyons, at third, were kept busy on defense, the former handling six chances and the latter four.

GOLDEN STARS BEAT POTTERS

The Golden Stars nixed out the Potters' Supply, 6 to 4, Thursday night at Anderson Acres, the contest developing a pitching duel between Johnny Schneidmiller of the Stars and Campbell and Martin of the Potters.

Schneidmiller permitted but six blows while his mates got the same number off the combined delivery of Martin and Campbell. The Stars produced their bingles at timely junctures, however, to punch in runs when they were needed.

Wilson Wallops Homer To Tie Ruth and Klein

"This is a Left-handed Year," Avows the Babe, "Everything's Wrong." Athletics and Yanks Lose.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 24.—This, according to no less an authority than George Herman Ruth, is a "left-handed" baseball year.

Meaning that things are going perfectly—wrong.
If interviewed today Mr. Ruth would no doubt go even further and designate 1929 as "two left-handed years," for along with his various ailments, worry over next year's contract and the general depression of his beloved Yankees, Mr. Ruth now has another fret.

This time in the form of Hack (One-Round) Wilson, most pugacious of the Chicago Cubs.

For no sooner had the Babe overtaken Chuck Klein of the Phillies in the little matter of home runs than along comes Hack with his thirty-third of the season, tying the whole affair into a neat bow knot and furnishing Mr. Ruth with another rival to be overcome.

Wilson's tying blow came as the Cubs whipped the Phillies 6 to 1. Hornsby and Taylor also hit for the circuit. The win increased the Cubs' lead over second-place Pittsburgh another half notch.

Behind the seventh hitting fling of the Cards, 5 to 2, and evened the series at 1-1 Jess Haines caused no little excitement by hitting a home run.

New York and Pittsburgh and Brooklyn and Cincinnati will play double headers today to make up for the rainy day postponement of yesterday.

New York and Philadelphia continue to be easy pickings for the weaker clubs around the American circuit. New York suffered its second successive shutout yesterday when Elacholder limited them to five hits while his teammates rapped Pennock and Moore for five runs.

Philadelphia did little better, dropping a 3 to 1 decision to the White Sox. It was the Athletics' fourth straight setback and their sixth defeat in their last seven games. It marked their longest losing streak of the year. McKain, recruit hurler, spiked the Mack's.

"BIG GAME"

Story of a girl who thought love more powerful than society.

By Vida Hurst

His lips burned into the softness of her throat, whispering, "No! I love you, Mona! I love you TOO MUCH!"

Hours or was it moments later, the sound of a car penetrated the storm.

"Someone else out," Mona sighed, fluttering her eyelashes against his cheek. "That's a butterfly kiss. . . Darling, do you remember?"

"Can I ever forget? You danced your way into my heart that very first night."

Mona sat erect.

"That car has stopped. It may be Johnnie looking for us."

Guiltily she flew from his arms, and an instant later footsteps sounded on the porch. But it was Dr. James Sampson, who beat upon the door, calling, "Oh, Bruce! Jim, who dissolved the magic of their dream. . .

"We found your car. Are you all right?"

Bruce answered, nervously. "Yes! Lucky escape! We broke in here."

Mona was pulling on her stockings and warped, water-soaked shoes. Tears of resentment burned in her eyes. They might have known no storm could keep Jim Sampson from searching for them. Jim, with his prunes and prisms, ideas and his uncanny knowledge of the human heart.

She asked, coldly, "Are you alone?"

"No! Johnnie's driving. We waited an hour then we decided something must have happened."

Did he suspect how much that fateful hour had meant to them?

"Here's your coat, Mona."

As he held it for her, Jim gave her a reassuring hug.

"We were worried about you," he said as if in answer to her unvoiced suspicions.

With a swift revulsion of feeling, she wanted, then, to bury her head on his shoulder and cry.

"It wasn't Jim's fault. . . No, nor theirs!"

A stolen glance at Bruce revealed his face, haggard, in the firelight. And at sight of it Mona forgot her own suffering.

Silently they put out the fire and closed the door. Splashing through pools of water, Johnnie greeted them with surprise.

"Jim said you'd be here. But I guessed you'd gone to the Interurban."

"The house was closer," Bruce said. "Awfully good of you to come back and look for us."

They drove on. Self-consciously silent! For the first time in her life Mona was utterly without repartee.

Poor Bruce! Darling Bruce with his miserable, tortured eyes. What could she do? What could she say to comfort him?

He sat slumped down in the seat beside Johnnie. Mona was in the back with Jim.

"You must get out of those damp clothes as soon as possible," he said.

Did Jim know? Could he possibly have understood the madness of that hour he had interrupted. As they drove up to the Walker cottage, the door opened.

"Did you find them?" Mabel called.

Then, seeing their limp, bedraggled condition, "My heavens, Bruce, what's happened?"

She seized him, turning him about, mercilessly.

"You look as if you'd been in a wreck."

"We have."

"Where's the car?"

"In a ditch some two miles back."

Mabel's eyes began to gleam.

"You don't mean you really went off the road?"

Anxious to avert the inevitable outburst, Jim cried, "Coffee, woman! Quick! The survivors must have something hot."

But it was Ruth who served the coffee she had already prepared.

"Here, Mona. Bruce, you want two lumps! With cream!"

He accepted it, gratefully. Color crept back into his face. But Mona's spirits sank, all the values in her little world had suddenly changed. And uncontrollable jealousy seized her. She felt she could not endure the spectacle of Bruce "being a husband" now. She would scream! She would do something terrible.

It was as if there were two of her. A new Mona, helpless, dependent, desperate, and her older familiar self.

"You'd die before you'll be guilty of a scene," the old Mona commanded. "Think of your pride. Think of BRUCE."

"I am thinking of him. Why does he have to jump whenever Mabel cracks the whip?"

In Mona's limited experience it had always been the other way round.

"No man should permit a woman to dictate to him like that," she told herself, bitterly.

But as she swallowed the scalding coffee the moment of hysteria passed. When Mabel complained, "I'm afraid our party is spoiled," she said gaily, "No, it isn't. Give me ten minutes to change my clothes. . ."

"You didn't bring anything else."

"I'll wear my bathrobe. . ."

Plunging into its padded comfort, gave her fresh courage.

"If I can stick it out tonight I'll go away," she decided. "I'll never see either of them again."

She threw herself headlong into the remainder of the evening. Refusing to meet HIS eyes. Bobbing for apples, reading fortunes, telling ghost stories. Some one turned on the victrola and every one danced. But it was morning before they dared to dance together. . .

"Don't look so unhappy," Bruce whispered.

"It's YOU who looks unhappy."

"I can't help it," he muttered. "I wish this weary party would come to an end."

Talking, joking, dancing, a thousand memories clicked through her

MIDLAND, Pa., Aug. 24.—Two of an order of five steel barges for the inland Waterway Corporation, Washington, D. The barges, of the cabin type, are 235 feet in length and 45 feet wide. The hull is 11 feet deep, while the cabin stands 11 feet above the deck.

Workmen are now fabricating eight steel barges at the local plant which will be shipped in September by rail to New York City and then exported to South America. The carriers are sent in knocked-down sections and put together when the shipment reaches its destination.

CANTON TRUCK DRIVER FINED

Judge Lones Refuses Writ of Habeas Corpus.

LISBON, O., Aug. 24.—Writ of habeas corpus to secure the release of William Hardy, Canton truck driver, from the Salem city jail, was refused by Judge W. F. Lones in common pleas court at Lisbon Friday afternoon.

The action was filed by Attorney Ernest H. Cohen, Canton, who had been retained by Ralph Heller, Hardy's employer. The Canton attorney charged that Mayor Phil Hiddleston, Salem, gave him "no consideration at all" when he conferred with him.

Hardy was arrested at Salem recently for operating a truck which measured over 12.6 feet in height, including the load. It was contended by Mr. Cohen and also City Solicitor C. K. Scott of Salem that the city ordinance under which the prosecution was brought conformed with the state law.

Hardy entered a plea of guilty when arrested and fined $50 and costs. He was released with the understanding the fine and costs would be paid soon. It was not, and an execution was issued and sent to the Canton police department. It was returned to Salem unsatisfied, but with the note that Hardy would be produced by counsel whenever wanted.

Hardy drove a truck through Salem Thursday and was "picked up." Judge Lones held that the mayor had the right to place his own construction on the law. No record of the first trial was taken at Salem, and the employer of Hardy could not then get the case in a higher court on error. The employer of Hardy then paid the fine.
